

“Kindling Creativity: Poetic and Artistic Pieces 2018”

Principal’s Message

I would like to take this opportunity to congratulate all participants who have successfully completed this journey of creativity in the ocean of poems.

It is very pleasing to see that all competitors have demonstrated their exceptional language as well as arts skills to bring about the best they have within them and realized their full potential in writing their creative poetic and artistic pieces.

Our school takes pride in our students, who through relentless support of their teachers are striving to the best of their abilities to fulfil their dreams. Needless to say, our school provides full support to students’ development through English language enriched environment. Morning assemblies, Thursday morning reading, online reading, annual tours to Singapore and Brunei, Toastmasters, monthly English Days and this very workshop are just a few programmes to mention that assist our students through an engaging and motivating process with acquisition of English language skills.

In view of the resounding success of the competition from the entries received and the positive feedback, we have organized the “Kindling Creativity: Poetic and Artistic Pieces” Workshops and Competitions. We are delighted to receive an overwhelming response again. Around 40 participants of 10 primary schools have been involved in this creative writing journey. I am glad to see that, this year, a high team spirit as well as enthusiastic individual efforts among all students are vigorous because these are the key ingredients to achievement and success.

With great joy I extend a special vote of thanks to our honorable judge, Ms. Barbara Chan, the Chief Curriculum Development Officer (English) of the Curriculum Development Institute (EDB), whose expertise and dedication play crucial role in selecting the winners and motivating all participants of this workshop. Her message sheds light on how our participants can continue to aspire to even greater heights in kindling their creativity.

The efforts and commitment made by the teachers, staff and student ambassadors of LSTLCWMS are also highly appreciated. I strongly believe that this year’s participants will continue forging forward creatively to enrich their English learning experiences.
